

EITC Awareness Day Communications Guide

The National League of Cities (NLC) Institute for Youth, Education, and Families have worked with local leaders to implement Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) outreach campaigns for more than 20 years.

These campaigns have helped to raise awareness of the tax credit and increase the participation of low- and moderate-income residents. As this work has grown, we've helped cities develop new partners with existing local Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) programs to help their residents access this important tax credit through a trusted source.

It is through these collective efforts that more than $62 billion of federal dollars are brought back to local economies every year. In 2022, qualifying families with three or more children could receive $6,728.

If you're interested, we are happy to help you advance your work in this space.

On Friday, January 28, 2022, we will be celebrating the 16th annual EITC Awareness Day. This day is an effort by the IRS to encourage local governments, community organizations, and other stakeholders to bring attention to the EITC and opportunities for free tax filing services through virtual VITA, and via GetYourRefund.org.

This communications guide has been created to help you celebrate the day, connect with VITA partners, and raise the visibility of this important tax credit for your residents. It includes a template press release, a sample email to partners, a city proclamation template, as well as sample social media posts which you can tailor to meet your needs.

We will be posting a blog post highlighting EITC Awareness Day on NLC's CitiesSpeak blog. Once it's been published, we will share the link to the post on our social media channels and would appreciate you promoting it on your social media accounts. If you are unaware of your local EITC and VITA providers, please contact your IRS Territory Manager to help get connected.

Finally, to help us understand what our members do to celebrate this important day we would ask that you please send us a copy of your completed press release and links to any local stories it generates.

If you have any questions or require a Word Document version of this guide, please let us know and we'd be happy to help (Patrick can be reached at hain@nlc.org and Ebone can be reached at clifton@nlc.org).

City of [City Name] Joins Forces with [Partners] in Spotlighting the Earned Income Tax Credit for [City Name] Residents

[LOCATION BYLINE] The City of [City Name] is joining others across the nation in proclaiming January 28, 2022, EITC Awareness Day. EITC Awareness Day is a nationwide effort to bring awareness to one of the most important tax credits available to working families and individuals. With strong bipartisan support since its inception in the mid-70s, it has grown to become one of the largest anti-poverty tools in the U.S. Unfortunately, nearly one in five people eligible for the EITC do not claim it. We are joining with our community partners to ensure that people know how vital the EITC can be to their family, including those now eligible, like younger adults aged 19-24 and former foster youth and youth experiencing homelessness.

EITC Awareness Day Draft Partner Email

Dear _____,

This year, the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) Awareness Day is Friday, January 28, 2022. This day offers an opportunity to promote a much-needed tax credit that helps many families in our community improve their financial stability.

Nationwide, the EITC provided 25 million eligible workers and families about $62 billion. These dollars are a great injection of resources for families and are very important to the sustainability of their yearly finances. The IRS has found that one in five eligible people, do not claim the EITC and that's why I am reaching out. I am asking if you have already planned activities for EITC Awareness Day and if my staff and I can help raise the visibility of the event and the tax credit for our residents by being a part of it.

I believe that together we can help raise the visibility of the EITC and the events of this day by [\[City plans or general ideas on how to spread EITC Awareness -- i.e., joint news conference; joint press release; PSA; social media push; etc.\]](#)

The EITC is a very important tool for the residents of our city and your organization could be a crucial partner in our effort to spread awareness of this tax credit and aid people in claiming it. I am dedicated to ensuring families get the tax credits they deserve and believe that this partnership will be key to ensuring the success of EITC Awareness Day. More importantly, it will provide a boost in income to residents within our community who need it most.
